About T-Squared Putters

T Squared Putters – A Buffalo native, Tony Tuber, Co-Founder of T Squared Putters, had one mission - making the perfect putter. Tuber began playing golf at a young age just for fun, but once he became a teenager, he began to play more competitively. Throughout this time, Tuber's dad was operating a startup company that specialized in manufacturing surgical dental equipment. Never quite interested in the dental field, Tuber didn't give his dad's work too much thought and would just occasionally help out. This all changed when Tuber found out that those same machines used for dental equipment could also be used for golf equipment.

Tuber immediately began to learn the machines and began getting to know the engineers with a goal of developing a putter prototype. When it turned out high quality, Tuber knew he was onto something, and thus, T Squared Putters was born.
